

Finding a Book

As a member of TMI, you have access to the online library system, LibraryThing (www.librarything.com). To access it, ask for the username and password at reception. Upon logging into the site, you will be able to search for books using their title, the author's name, or the book's ISBN.

How to Search Online

Go to the "my books" section and type your selected book into the "search your library" search bar. You will then find whether or not it is in the collection, and if it is available or checked out. With the category of the book listed, you will be able to locate it in the library following the maps posted in each room and on this pamphlet. The room listed online may not accurately represent its true location due to recent changes.

If the Book is Not Found

If the book you are searching for does not come up, make sure that you are searching under "all collections" on the upper left hand side of the screen, not a specific room. If it still does not come up, it is not in the collection.

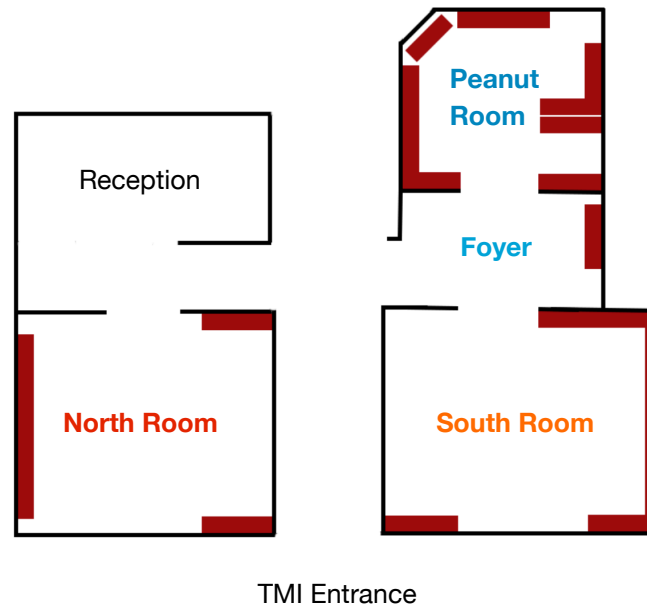

Other Methods of Finding a Book

Alternatively, you may search for a book by simply perusing the shelves of our library. If you need help, you may refer to the map on the back of this pamphlet. The rooms are numbered and there are guides posted in each for further detail.

Borrowing Guidelines

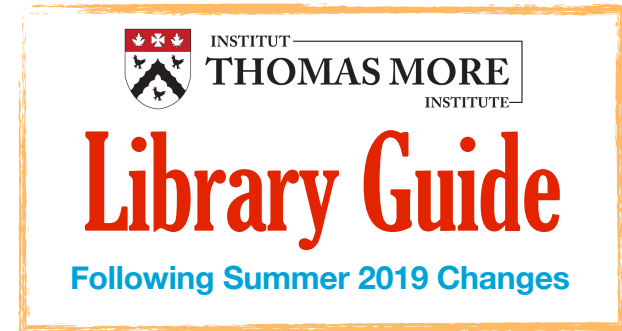

TMI members are able to check out any number of books of their choosing. To check out a book, fill in the required information in the Check Out booklet at reception. We rely on an "honour system" which requires the borrower to return the material within a reasonable period of 4-6 weeks—but no later than 6 weeks.

Map

Special and Rare Books

Due to the nature of these books, they have been reserved to the director's office for viewing and may not be removed from TMI. This includes a small selection of antiquarian books, first editions and rare copies, books by Lonergan, Voegelin, and Frye, as well as TMI publications. For this reason, they are not listed on the map. However, should these books be of interest, the director's office is located on the left once you walk past the North Room.

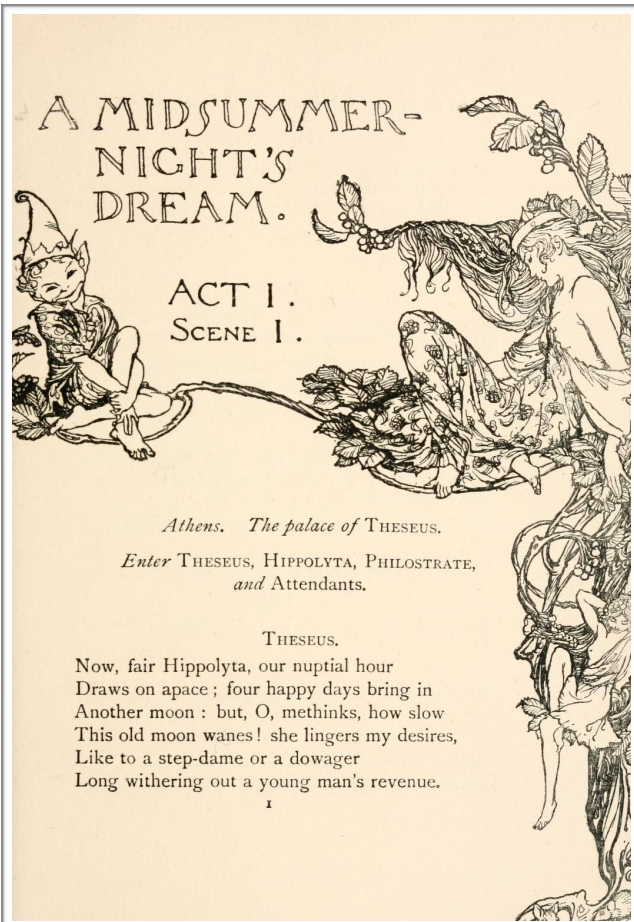

North Room

Novels, Poetry, Plays,
Literary Anthologies,
Literary Studies

Home to Works of Fiction

There is little that compares to the feeling of delving into a good book. Whether it is to be enraptured by the tumultuous characters of Shakespeare or simply to be lost in another world for a moment, there is something to discover for everyone.

South Room

History, Biography,
Classics, DVDs

Dedicated to the History of Humanity

Our family of books located in the South Room revolve around the collective story of humanity. From the battle-worn moors of Scotland to the musings of Plato, you are bound to discover the intricacies of human life as it has played out in the last millennia. History, Biographies, and Classics have all nestled here into our shelves.

Peanut Room

Psychology, Economics,
Anthropology, Sciences,
Artistic Creations, Art
History, Music, Social Science, Philosophy,
Political Science, Religion
(foyer)

For Understanding the World Around Us

Tucked away in the tiny reading nook of the Peanut Room lies a wide range of subjects to expand your knowledge on all on scientific, artistic and thought-provoking horizons. It is a room as small as the world is big, but certainly not lacking in content.

